GIRL SINKS; LOVER SAVES HER

COUGHLIN DIDN'T KNOW WHO IT WAS WHEN HE PLUNGED IN.

Was Aboard a Yacht and Miss Melley Was Practising for a Swimming Race -Overcome When He Recognized Her

Hundreds of people stood on the pier of he Brooklyn Rowing Club at the foot of Minety-ninth street, Bay Ridge, as dusk was coming on last evening and watched the struggle of several young women of the Bay Shore road district trying to save of their companions from drowning. They saw her go under twice. Then they a sloop yacht which was going down the bay creep up with the wind to the drowning young woman and two young men leap from the deck and save her. And then cheered. They cheered more when woman was brought ashore alive and they discovered that the young man who had been first at the rescue was en-

The young woman who was saved was Miss Irene Molloy, 22 years old, who lives with her father, Robert Molloy, a real estate owner, at Eighty-fifth street and Fourth avenue, Bay Ridge. Miss Molley has been practising swimming with a number of her companions for several weeks in preparation for a women's swimming contest which will take place at Bay Ridge on Monday and in which the swimmers have as a course the distance across the Narrows from Bay Ridge. Miss Molloy has been regarded as a very good swimmer and when she started out for a long swim at 6 o'clock last night she expected no trouble at all. She was accompanied by several friends, also good swimmers.

When they had been in the water so time the others noticed that Miss Mollor who had got some distance ahead in the direction of Fort Hamilton, was going slower. A moment later she cried for was being swept down the bay by the tide. As they got near her she became exhausted and sank. The other girls then set up a cry which was heard on the pier ashore. Then they tried to keep Miss Molloy up when she came to the surface again. She was very weak, however, and her companions had a hard time keeping her from dragging them under with her. They finally were forced to let her go under

The crowd ashore, which had been increasing every minute, had meanwhile noticed the sloop yacht Sterling coming down the bay. On her were William Dunne, who was steering, and William C. Cough lin, the captain of the Brooklyn Rowing Club. Both are young men and well known at Bay Ridge. Coughlin had seen the girls struggling to keep Miss Molloy up. He been engaged to Miss Molloy for some time and he guessed, so he said later, that she might be one of the swimmers, but he didn't have any idea she was the one who was drowning. They sent the yacht up was drowning. They sent the yacht up lies to the girl and then Coughlin tore off his coat and dived into the water near where he had last seen the drowning girl. Dunne let go his sheet and followed.

Coughlin caught the girl and brought her to the surface. There he saw who she was and was so flustered that he let go his hold on the collar of her bathing suit. between them they got her to the Sterling and pulled her up on the boat. She was unconscious but alive. Coughlin worked ever her while Dunne took the boat into the pier. Then she was carried quickly to her home and put under the care of Dr. John L. Corish. She soon recovered consci

NITROGLYCERINE EXPLODES.

Bowling Green, Ohio, Aug. 5 .- Nearly eight hundred quarts of nitroglycerine exploded one and one-half miles west of this city this afternoon and blew the driver of the wagon in which the ex-plosive was carried, the team and wagon to bits. The driver was Will Radabaugh of the Hercules Torpedo Company, and he was taking the glycerine to a magazine some distance further west. When he reached the crossing of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad, he saw a passenger train approaching. Evidently he tried to cross the track before the train and drove at a reckless gait over the rails causing the explosion. The train was stopped before it had reached the great hole which the explosion made, and it was far enough away from the wagon when the stuff exploded to escape serious damage.

Berious damage.

The passengers were shaken up and pieces of wood and iron were hurled against the cars. Traffic was stopped for several hours. When the explosion occurred the engineer applied the brakes and stopped. About 200 feet from the spot was a barn. This was reduced to kindling wood and set on fire by the explosion. A house about 400 feet away was riddled and knocked out of all semblance to a building. The occupants, Mrs. Abraham Teal and her two sons, Willie and Roland, aged 7 and 9, were hurled across the room. They all are suffering from the shock and the mother is in a precarious condition.

Engine's Eccentric Rod Breaks-

Sixty Miles an Hour. New Haven and Hartford Railroad broke down last night between Pelham and Mount Vernon. The express left Boston at 3 o'clock and was due in New York at 9 o'clock. At South Norwalk the train was thirty minutes late, and after leaving that station he engineer endeavored to make up some of his lost time.

The express was travelling sixty miles an hour when one of the eccentric rods of the engine broke. The airbrakes were put on, but the train ran about half a mile before it could be stopped. The thrashing of the broken rod did considerable damage to the woodwork. The passengers, some two hundred in number, were transferred to a local train and reached the Grand Central Station about two hours late. Central Station about two hours late.

UIS DAY FOR WIFE-BEATING. The Day His Good Behavior Bond Expired

Had It Marked on the Calendar. Edward Graham, a former prizefighter, was arrested some time ago for beating his wife. He was put under bonds to keep the peace for three months. This expired on Saturday and Graham, who had the day marked on the calendar, celebrated it, so his wife said, by beating her again. She got a warrant for him in the Harlem police court and he was arrested yesterday, after he had fought two policemen

Magistrate Crane fined him for assaulting the cope and then sent him to the court prison to wait till his wife could come to Court and make her coverlator.

THEIR PAY, WORK OR NO WORK. City's Salaried Idiers Say the Courts Went Let the City Deck Them.

Many of the most conspicuous idlers on the city payroll say they do not care anything about the Hon. John Wha-len's order that they must work for their money, and that as long as their names are on the roll they will get what they are put down for, regardless of any notices that may be posted in the city depart that may be posted in the city departments. They contend that they are city officials and are paid by the year regardless of the amount of time that they put in in their alleged offices.

They rely for support in their contention on the decisions of the Court of Appeals in a number of cases, notable among which is the Nugent case, in which it has been held that a man employed at an annual salary is not a wage-carner and not to be treated as such. Nugent was a policeman who was suspected in connection with the robbery of the Manhattan Saving Bank.

Bank.

He was arrested and locked up in the Tombs for a year. When he got out he asked for his pay for the year and it was refused to him. He began an action that was carried up to the highest court, which decided in his favor. In another case, herewish he an immector on the Aqueduct, decided in his favor. In another case, brought by an inspector on the Aqueduct, who had been laid off because there was nothing for him to inspect, the court held that as he was carried on the rolls as an inspector he was entitled to his pay, no matter whether he worked or not.

The association of civil employees of the city will fight any attempt to dock one of its members under the ruling of the Corporation Counsel and it is confident that it will win. The day laborers in the departments have no immunity, of course.

MURDERER AT BAY. Patterson Stood Off Angry Citizens With

Gun Until the Sheriff Came. MATTOON, Ill., Aug. 5.-Armed with a double-barrelled shotgun, after having killed John Thomason at Sullivan, Ill., Fistcher Patterson held a crowd of citisens at bay to-day until the Sheriff's posse arrived, when he gave himself up. Thomason came of a respected Moultrie county family. Patterson for years has been widely known as a "bad man" and figured in more bloody affrays than any other man in this region.

Thomason leaves a divorced wife and Thomason leaves a divorced wife and three children at Kinmundy, Ill. Attentions he had been paying to the sister of Patterson, who has been making her home recently with the latter, was the cause of the tragedy.

On Saturday night Thomason called on the woman and was peremptorily ordered from the premises by Patterson, who vowed to kill him if he continued paying attentions to his sister. Later Thomason returned. Patterson, armed with a gun, met Thomason at the gate. The latter was obstinate in his intention of seeing the woman, whereupon Patterson discharged the contents of the weapon into Thomason's body.

After witnessing his victim's death struggle the slayer entered the dwelling, where his mother lay at the point of death, and went to bed. A party of Thomason's friends quickly gathered to take vengeance on the slayer. Patterson, behind barred doors and with weapon in hand, stood there until the Sheriff's posse arrived. He was committed to the county jail.

WORDEN PAYS HIS DOG TAX. Served One Day in Jali Breaking Ste and Then Gave It Up.

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 5.—Having kept his word that he would go to jail be-fore he would license his dog William Worden came out of jail last night and to-day Town Clerk Me $5.15, taking out a license for Peggy, his fox terrier. The licensing of the dog was one of the conditions of his release from Bridgeport jail. Mr. Worden's brother Zenas secured a letter from Prosecuting Attorney James F. Walsh addressed to Judge Burnes, who had fined Worden for defying the Dog laws, in which there was a statement to the effect that the imprisoned man was not fully responsible for defying the Dog laws, in which there was a statement to the effect that the imprisoned man was not fuily responsible for his actions and recommending that he be released from jail.

Judge Burnes had started on his vacation to the White Mountains so Zenas sought out County Commissioner Whitman S. Mead. The Commissioner telephoned the jailer to release Worden, who after one day's imprisonment at breaking stones was mighty glad to go home. After his dog was licensed to-day Worden visited Prosecutor Walsh to make inquiries about his neighbors' dogs. He said that he had not licensed his dog before because they hadn't, but now he was going to see that they did. He also said that he had been waiting to hear the outcome of the Peter F. Meyer dog case and didn't know that Meyer's dogs had been licensed and the case disposed of. To-night there are only 100 unlicensed dogs in town. Their owners have killed many of them rather than pay the tax.

BLOW MADE COLLIER INSANE. Caused a Growth of Bone to Press on the Chicago Lawyer's Brain. CHICAGO, Aug. 5 .- The cause of Frank Collier's insanity was determined at the autopsy held to-day. Collier was at one time one of the most brilliant lawyers of the Chicago bar. He was struck on the head during a campaign argument several years ago and went insane from the effects of the blow. Two growths of bone on the inner side of the skull pressed against the brain. These growing larger and larger compressed the nerves and blood vessels and brought on the insanity which had affected Mr. Collier for the past ten and aneoted Mr. confer for the past ten or twelve years.

The growths were at the top of the forehead. They were rough formations, an eighth of an inch in thickness, an inch or more long and half as wide. Deforest Heath, brother-in-law of Mr. Collier, authorized this statement:

"The result of the autopsy is regarded of great value to medical science, and there is no doubt that the post-mortem on Mr. Collier's body will enable surgeons on Mr. Collier's body will enable surgeons in the future to more correctly diagnose the malady from which he suffered.

It is said that the operation performed a year ago upon Mr. Collier might have effected a cure had the piece of bone removed at that time been an inch nearer the centre of the forehead.

SAVED BY A DETECTIVE.

at Narragansett Pler.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 5.—In an attempt to swim to the life raft just off the Narragansett Beach, Dr. J. H. Evans narrowly escaped death by drowning while in bathing here to-day. He owes his life to Detective T. Maxwell of New York, who rescued him. Dr. Evans had started to rescued in out to the raft, accompanied by several ladies. When half way between the shore and the raft he threw up his hands shore and the raft he threw up his hands and sank, exclaiming as he went down;

"I am played out; save me!"
He sank twice, and he was going down the third time when Detective Maxwell, who was swimming nearby, went to his aid. He seized the drowning man, who struck Maxwell a blow in the right eye in his struggle before losing consciousness. Maxwell, however, did not relinquish his hold and swam to shore.

Dr. Evans received immediate aid which proved effective. He recovered sufficiently to leave for New York in an after-acon train.

THREW AWAY HIS MONEY

SHOWER OF TENS AND TWENTIES IN SIXTH AVENUE.

Man Returned a Bill and Told the Man Who Had Thrown It Away He Was a Fool-Harkness Is Arrested.

well-dressed man staggered into ixth avenue from Twenty-fourth street early last evening and stood unsteadily "Come on, everybody," he yelled. "I've got money to burn and I want to burn it." A crowd had collected by this time and when the man said he had money to burn dozen panhandlers sidled up near him. A woman with plenty of wrinkles in her face walked up to the man with money and tried to lead him away. "Come on, dearie," she said, softly.

You're collecting a crowd." "Say, you're a good one," the man re-plied. Then he pulled out a big roll of pills and gave $10 to the woman, saying: "Back to the woods, woman."

The woman ducked through the crowd and never stopped running until she boarded a Twenty-third street car going west The panhandlers crowded closer to the man, who was waving his roll of money in the air and inviting all to get ready, for he was soon to give it away.

He peeled off several bills, one a twenty, the others fives, and threw them over the heads of the crowd into the roadway. The scramble that ensued would make a football rush seem tame in comparison. An elderly man managed to get hold of the yellow-backed twenty. He elbowed his way to the man who had thrown it away and thrust the bill in his hands again.

"You're a fool!" said the old man, hotly. Just to show what he thought of the old man's admonition he took off two tens and beckoned two flashily dressed women to come near. As he was about to hand them the bills Policeman Behr of the Tenderloin station nabbed him. Behr made him put what money he had left in his pocket. In the police station Behr's prisoner said he was William L. Harkness, 45 years old, a commercial traveller. He gave his business address as 150 Nassau street, and said he lived while in town at the Victoria Annex. He had $80 left and the police took charge of it for the night.

MYLES M'DONALD THROWING AWAY MONEY,

Myles B. McDonald, the gambler who was recently acquitted on a charge of shooting and killing George Price in the Onawa Café at 125th street and Lexington avenue, went to John J. Cox's saloon at Tremont and Third avenues last night with a party of friends. When the party came out for their carriages McDonald stripped off a dollar bill from his roll and gave it to the man who had held his horse. Then he plunged both hands into his trousers pockets and brought out two big fistfuls of silver, which he scattered all over the street. The smallest coin in the lot is said to have been a quarter.

The crowd of boys which had gathered had a great time picking it up. When it was all gathered up McDonald threw out two more handfuls, and as the crowd was picking it up he drove away with his friends.

WONT TELL WHO STABBED HIM. After a Row With Boys.

Patrolman Ozab of the East Twenty second street station found a young man lying in a semi-conscious condition upon the grass in Stuyvesant Park shortly after 10 o'clock last night. He said he was August Margraf, 18 years old, of 47 St. Mark's place, and that he had been stabbed. He was taken to the East Twenty-second street station, where he was examined by Dr. Rogers of Bellevue, who found that he had been stabbed over the heart, apparently with a pocketknife. The knife had been deflected by coming in contact with a rib, and the wound was not a dangerous one. Margraf admitted that he knew who had stabbed him, but wouldn't tell the police. He said that earlier in the evening he had had a row with some hoys and that while sitting on a bench in Stuyvesant Park at about 10 o'clock a man walked up to him and stabbed him. after 10 o'clock last night. He said he

RUNAWAY AUTO WRECKS CAB.

She Was Getting Out of the Machine. Frederick A. Mills, a song publisher of 48 West Twenty-ninth street, was helping a woman to alight from his automobile in front of the Harlem Casino last night when her skirt caught on the lever and pulled it over, sending the machine ahead at full speed with nobody aboard to control it. The woman saved herself by jumping. The runaway automobile went up Seventh avenue as far as 127th street, where it collided with a cab driven by David Gorman of 2423 Seventh avenue. The force of the impact dashed the cab into a tree and threw Gorman to the ground. While the auto was trying to bore a hole through the cab Patrolman Birmingham shut off the power. The cab was completely wrecked and the automobile will have to go to the repair shop. when her skirt caught on the lever and pulled

Last night Schneider was standing at Twenty-eighth street and First avenue when he saw Miss Hayes on a passing car with another man. Pulling a pistol from his pocket he jumped on the car, and, grabbing the woman, pointed the pistol at her. He says he only wanted to scare her. He scared her all right and set all the women in the car to screaming. He was locked up.

Robbers Gag Two Men and Rob a Safe CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The offices of the Suburban Electric Railway in Harlem were looted early to-day by four robbers, who overpowered two men, blew open the safe and escaped with between $600 and $700. Two employees of the company were in the office. There was a cry of "Throw up your hands!" and turning they faced four strangers, each armed with a revolver. The intruders gagged their victims and then bundled them into a coalshed in the rear of the building while they secured their plunder.

LAW BOOKS IN THE STREET.

The Aun.

Augustus C. Francieli Disposse Liberty Street Landlord.

Law books, legal documents, bookcases, drawers and chairs were out in the street in front of 75 Liberty street last night with no one but a self-appointed guardian to keep whoever would from stealing them. The articles are the property of Augustus C. Fransioli, a lawyer, who for years was well known at the New York bar and who was dispossessed from his office yes-terday afternoon. Another lawyer estimated the value of the belongings on the sidewalk to be at least $2,000, the law timated the value of the belongings on the sidewalk to be at least $2,000, the law library being considerably larger than the majority of counsellors in this city can boast of.

The stuff was bundled into the street about 5 o'clock. Mr. Fransioli was present, but, according to the janitor, he made no protest and took no steps to see that his property was cared for over night. Unless he gets it out of the way this morning the Bureau of Incumbrances will probably cart it off to the corporation yards. How Mr. Fransioli came to permit himself to be dispossessed was not learned last night.

"Are you going to sit up all night?" the janitor on guard was asked.

"Well," he replied, "those books are worth money and Pd hate to see any one steal them, but if I get sleepy Pil go to bed, for it ain't no skin off'n my nose if the whole darn business is swiped."

Mr. Fransioli is about 65 years old. He has been practising law in this city for more than twenty years. He is a native of one of the southern cantons of Switzerland, but he is an Italian by blood. For a long time he had a very lucrative practice among Italian societies. Italian priests retained him to assist in the management of the money matters of their parishes. He is the father of former Manager Fransioli of the Manhattan elevated road.

RELAY WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

RELAY WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY. Man Who Says He Can Strengthen the Current by the Use of Kites.

Boston, Aug. 5.-What is said to be an improved wireless telegraph system is to be tried between Boston and Danvers, where an electrical and telegraph school has bought a farm of sufficient area for running electric cars in connection with a course of instruction. A relay system for intercepting a wireless message and sending it forward with more force has been invented by Edgar S. Gray, the princi-pal of the school, and it was tried in Verent a short while ago. Wells River and Croton were the termi-

Wells River and Croton were the terminal points between which messages were sent and the relay station was established at Ryegate, which is about seven miles from Wells River. This relay consists, generally speaking, of two kites. One receives the message and the other charges it with more force and sends it on.

The inventor says he is able to send a message 50 miles over land and then pass it through the relay apparatus, which he can manipulate at the starting point. He ventures the prediction that such stations could be established at intervals of fifty miles, repeating and forwarding the messages almost indefinitely.

The thieves got $248 belonging to four men who boarded at the house, together with some valuables, and escaped. Mrs. James Whitlock, a neighbor, saw the men attack Mrs. Demko. She was so frightened that she ran to her home and locked herself in. After the departure of the men she released Mrs. Demko. Soon afterward word was sent to Chief Kiely of the police department. He sent six policemen out on wheels in search of the highwaymen. They hunted the entire afternoon in vain.

EXPOSITION BUILDING BURNED.

Pride of the State. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 5.-The old Exposition Building, once the pride of all this noon. Ringling's circus was in full swing in the grounds adjoining. The firemen had to drench the main tent, and the side-show tent was struck to save it after several big holes had been burned in it. Fully 10,000 persons were in the tents and about them and a panic was narrowly averted.

10,000 persons were in the tents and about them, and a panic was narrowly averted. The Exposition Building was built in 1888 and cost over $200,000. It was an enormous affair, built after the Philadelphia Centennial style with a steel and glass roof. It was the largest show building in the West. Only last week it was sold and was to have been torn down, so that the actual loss is not very great. There was no insurance.

Above the Store Among the Injured. PHILADRIPHIA, Aug. 5 .- An explosion of gasolene in the basement of the grocery store of George McClemmey, 1010 Locust street, at 9:35 o'clock to-night caused wide spread destruction. At midnight the bodies of only two persons, a man and a woman, were all the dead that had been recovered, but the police are convinced that there are at least a dozen more in the ruins, and persons who were in the neigh-berhood at the time of the explosion say there are a score or more in the ruins of the Solis restaurant above the store.

The Jefferson and Pennsylvania hospitals have received forty injured, but only a few names had been ascertained at midnight, as they are so badly burned and the doctors are so busy attending them that no attempt has been made to get names.

Among the missing are George McClemmey, keeper of the grocery store in which the explosion occurred, and his eighteen year-old son. Miss Mount, who lived at the corner of Warner street, is missing and so is Miss Somer, who lived in the adjoining house.

Four houses on the south side of Locust street, from 1010 to 1018, were razed to the ground. The corner house, 1008 was badly damaged and will have to be torn

At the time of the explosion the Solie restaurant, 1012, had in it at least twenty persons. If any of them escaped it is a miracle as the place collapsed and then

The Fire Department did excellent work and had the flames subdued in half as hour. The force of the explosion was terrific. There is not a glass in a house for four blocks and many houses on the north side of Locust street between Tenth and Eleventh, in Delhi street, Warner and Alder streets, both north and south of Alder which are untenantable. The persons who were living in these houses were forced to leave as a matter of precaution and more than 200 are consequently without homes. Samuel Gale and William Quigley, at the Jefferson Hospital, will die.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 5 .- A despatch from San Francisco announcing the probable burning at sea of the ship Poanoke is believed by experts here to be founded on wrong premises. The discrepancies in the story caused it to be thoroughly discredited here.

GOV. JONES'S DAUGHTER KILLED. Run Over by a Trolley Car in Sight of Her Father.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 5.—The daughter of former Gov. Jones was killed by a trolley car this morning. The residence of Gov. Jones fronts Adams street and along Hull street, by the side, runs the Cloverdale electric car line. As is his custom after breakfast, the Governor was sitting on his front porch this morning, smoking, before going to the Constitutional Convention to which he is a delegate. He is a cripple, suffering from a sprained knee, and goes about on crutches requiring constant help. On the porch with him were his daughter Miss Caroline, and his young son, a mere lad, Tom Jones, Jr.

The daughter for a long time has been afflicted with nervous trouble which took the form of sudden spells of dementia or an uncontrollable desire to run. She required constant attention. She was in the yard gathering flowers when the car came in sight down Hill street, going down grade at full speed.

She sprang out of the gate heedless of her father's call to stop. Her brother followed. She ran directly to the car and reached for the front end, at which she grasped in vain. Her father, leaning helplessly on his crutches, saw her strike the car. He turned away his eyes just in time to miss the sight as she was thrown violently down and entangled in the wheels. She was dragged nearly a block. She was dead when the motorman, who lost control of the car for a moment, brought it to a stop. cripple, suffering from a sprained knee, WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 5 .- Miss Mattle Heler Beals, the Wichita telephone girl who drew second choice of farms in the new Kiowa and Comanche country, has accepted new honors. She will become City Marshal of the new town of Lawton to take the place of Bat Carr, the present officer. Mr. Carr was relieved of his gun because he/wanted to start too many fights and run the new town in a wide-open manner.

A delegation of citizens waited on Miss

Beals this morning and tendered her the place. There is a good salary at-tached. As she has to remain on her farm fourteen months she accepted the place after some hesitation. hopes to tame the outlaws and bad men without having to shoot any, although she will go well armed at all times. She will suppress all gambling houses if

To-morrow the big sale of town lots commences and it is probable that Miss Beals will assume her new post bright and early on Tuesday, the first official day of the opening.

Miss Beals and Bat Carr met this evening. Just to test her nerve he fired several shots. She returned the fire, the story goes, and shot his hat off. After this little exchange of compliments the two shook hands and promised to be friends.

FERRYBOAT STICKS ON WAYS. Launching of the North Beach Only Half

The ferryboat North Beach, which is being built by the Townsend & Downey Shipbuilding Company, at Shooter's Isl-

Shipbuilding Company, at Shooter's Island in Newark Bay, was to be launched yesterday morning, but the craft stuck on the ways with only about half of the hull in the water.

The boat is being built for the New York and College Point Ferry Company, and a company of the officers and invited guests reached Shooter's Island on the tugboat Edna V. Crew, shortly after 11 o'clock. The party was headed by Louis Von Bernuth, President of the company, who named the new boat. It was just noon when the nuth, President of the company, who named the new boat. It was just noon when the last block had been cut and the North Beach began to move very slowly down the ways. The speed did not increase materially and when the hull of the vessel was half into the water it stopped sud-

Lines were passed to the tugboat and three heavy cables were broken in a fruit-less attempt to move the craft on the ways. Then the tug Cracies was called to assist the Crew, and more lines were broken without result. Mr. Downey placed the fault for the failure of the launching upon the grease used on the ways and will attempt to complete the launching at high tide this morning.

MORE DELAY IN STRIKE ORDER

haffer of the Amalgamated Amedatte Intimates That It Is Because He Wishes to Give Fair Notice-Delay May He Due to a Desire to Sound the Miners-Little Aid to Be Expected in That Quarter-Planning the Battle.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 5.-Theodore Shaffer the President of the Amaignmeted Associated ciation, has decided that he may not issue his general strike order against the Steel Trust for ten days. The reason that Shaffel gives for the delay is a desire on his part to give the officers of the three con not yet involved, the Federal, National Steel and National Tube companies, fair notice. He says he doesn't want to take them by surprise.

"Just when the strike call to all the plants of the United States Steel Corporation will be issued I can't say," said Shaffer. "It may be a week, or it may be ten days. There are good and sufficient reasons for this. gamated Association will be exterminated in this conflict. When the strike call went out to the men of the three compa whose union men are now on strike, we had no expectation that it would be resp to so generally as it was." When the wage negotiations with the American Steel Hoop Company first fell through, the American Tin Plate Company, which had signed the wage scale for all but ite one non-union plant, was notified by Shaffer that the hoop company had not signed the scale and that he would have to call the tin plate company's men out. Shaffer hinted that that was why he was now giving the other three companies notice. Shaffer does not say that a time notice has been sent to the other companies named, but he did my to-night that if he had not desired the trust to have ample notice he would have sent out the strike order on Saturday night in New York It was reported to-day that the Amalgamated Association would look with equanimity upon the return to work of the men imployed in the Clarke, Lindsey-McCutcheon and Painter Hoop plants in Pittsburg and the Hoop plant in Monessen. The report conveyed the idea that the association felt itself obliged to stand by those men, but that it secretly desired them to return to work, as in that case there would be nothing to prevent the association and the trust from settling their differences In reference to this report Shaffer said:

"We are now standing by these mer and we expect them to stand by us. They are doing so. The Amalgamated Association could not countenance the return to work of these men and we do not doubt their steadfastness for a moment. The their steadfastness for a moment. The Amalgamated Association could have settled in New York if it had been willing to give up some of its mills. Men have joined our organization since the strike was declared and it would not be fair to desert them. Their fight is ours, and our fight is theirs.

"The general executive board will not be called to meet again until the United States Steel Corporation wants peace. They have declared war and war it is. We went to Washington to see President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, but found he was at Atlantic City. He will come to Pittsburg this week, and we will have a conference on the strike situation. The order for a general strike will be issued regardless of what action the federation may take. While in Wash-ington we saw Secretary Frank Morrisson and he assured us that the federation and he assured us that the federation would give us all the support in its power."

There is a lot of talk about the help the American Federation of Labor may extend to the Amalgamated Association. The chief strength of the Federation lies in the United Mine Workers' Union, all of whose members in the bituminous coal region are working under a contract that runs to April 1, 1902. The miners will probably act in this instance, as they did in the strike of the mine firemen in the anthracite regions a few weeks ago. There they regions a few weeks ago. There they re-fused to strike out of sympathy and even went so far as to fill the places of the firemen so that the mines might not be closed down. The Amalgamated Association depends

The Amalgamated Association depends upon the firemen to refuse to mine coal that is to go into non-union mills, but to judge from the policy the miners followed in the firemen's strike, the Amalgamated will get very little help from them. Few workers appeared at headquarters to-day. It is understood that an edict has gone forth asking all men who are on strike to be on guard for the best interests of the organization and to watch every development Besides, the officials are too much interested in the work they have on hand to devote much time to callers. On the desk of each official is a huge pi'e of mail, which requires answering desk of each official is a huge pi'e of mail, which requires answering.

This accumulated while the prospects for a settlement were discussed during last week. Just what the line of battle will be has not been made known. There is no doubt that the plans of the fight have all been outlined by the Amalgamated Association while the contest has been going on, and it is expected that the fighting field will be enlarged. The officials of the organization are waiting for the trust to make a move in the way of starting other mills. It is then that more action is expected to be is then that more action is expected to be put into the contest.

It is known that there are a number of preliminaries to be arranged before the general order for a strike is issued. The Amalgamated Association wants to make as good a showing as possible at its inception, and some surprises for both sides are looked for.

are looked for.

Pittsburg promises to be the centre of the big fight. It is from here that orders will be issued by both sides. President C. M. Schwab was not to be found to-day and it is supposed that he is at his summer home at Loretto. Other officials of the United States Steel Corporation are expected to arrive in the city soon.

A meeting of the local members of the

to arrive in the city soon.

A meeting of the local members of the American Steel Hoop Company was held to-day in the auditors' office in the Empire office building. It is probable that an attempt will be made to start one of the three idle hoop plants in Pittsburg and probably the Painter mill. Manager Clarke broke a strike several years ago at the Painter mill and followed this success by breaking the strike at the Lindsey-McCutcheon plant. The manufacturers will have the aid of the Pittsburg police to prevent attacks on the non-union men.

IDLE SHEET MILL STARTED UP.

IDLE SHEET MILL STARTED UP. The American Sheet Steel Company made a successful attempt to start up the union and therefore idle sheet mill at Hyde Park, near Leechburg to-day. Seventy-five men were taken into the mill and twenty of the strikers returned to work. This first effort to break the strike was under the management of E. W. work. This first effort to break the strike was under the management of E. W. Pargny, of the Vandergrift plant, aided by Robert Locke, the new superintendent of the Hyde Park works. Twenty-five men were brought in the morning from Vandergrift and fifty in the afternoon The train in which they rode was stopped at the mill entrance and the men flocked through the gates.

The policy the management is thus pursuing takes account of the Amalgamated Association's claim that there are not workers.

The seventy-five men introduced were brought from Vandergrift. Of course, this lessens the productive capacity of the Vandergrift, but in its experience with
